Wheeler Trigg O'Donnell made Law360's inaugural Colorado Powerhouses list.

In honoring WTO, the publication highlighted the firm's recent commercial litigation wins for DISH Wireless, Denver International Airport, and Crestone Peak Resources. "Wheeler Trigg O'Donnell LLP racked up major courtroom wins over the past year, including beating back an attack on Dish's wireless plans, the defeat of a pricey threat to one of the nation's busiest airports, and a complicated oil and gas contract fight in front of the state's highest court."

The Colorado list is part of Law360's annual Regional Powerhouses series. Winning firms drove local legal work that often captured national attention, Law360 wrote.

For the article, Law360 asked WTO Managing Partner Mike Williams about keys to the firm's success. "We do have an all-in mindset at trial, and a competitive spirit and desire to win that I think pushes us 10% harder than the competition," he said. "I think that shows up in our results."
