

Won an 88% reduction in the appeal of a punitive damages award in a case tried by another firm.

2009

In a case heard in the Arizona Court of Appeals and defended at trial by another firm, WTO obtained an 88% reduction in a punitive damages verdict. WTO lawyers argued that the jury's verdict, which resulted in an 8:1 ratio of punitive damages to compensatory damages, was unconstitutionally excessive and that an award constituting a 1:1 ratio was the maximum that due process would allow. The appellate court agreed and instructed the trial court to reduce the punitive damages award to a 1:1 ratio.

Related Professionals

Jessica Goneau Scott
Partner, Diversity & Inclusion
Co-Chair

