Jessica Eller represents clients in complex commercial litigation matters, contract disputes, franchise disputes, and class actions. She has handled a wide range of business disputes involving issues ranging from trade secret theft to breach of contract. She also has experience in employment-related matters, including FLSA collective actions, and cases involving wrongful termination claims, wage and hour claims, and misclassification and joint employment allegations. Her pro bono experience includes amicus briefing before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit.

Prior to joining WTO, she served as a judicial extern to The Honorable Timothy M. Tymkovich of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit and Chief Justice Brian D. Boatright of the Colorado Supreme Court. Jessica graduated second in her class from the University of Colorado Law School. While a student, Jessica successfully defended an excessive force claim from an appeal before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit.

Jessica's personal interests include traveling, reading, and strength training.

Cases

Obtained decertification of an FLSA conditional collective that had been certified before we took over the case. After the decertification decision was issued, lawyers for the plaintiffs conceded that another pending nationwide case–which we also were defending–should be decertified as well.

Won decertification of an FLSA collective with 1,300 opt-ins spread over nine states, which had been conditionally certified before we took over the case. The claim against our global healthcare provider client was for overtime due to alleged missed meal breaks.

Representing a national real estate investment company in breach of contract disputes.

Representing one of the nation's largest beauty and wellness franchisors in breach of contract, theft of trade secrets, and non-compete violation matters.

Represented a national digital savings platform and won dismissal of a claim alleging civil theft.
